Welcome to the IACA Atlantis!

For over a year you have been looking forward to this...and you are here! On this first day you may wonder what presentations to go to - you can't go to ALL of them! FIRST...you MUST NOT sleep in. Of all the presentations you need to attend the first one with Bill Dickerson providing you with his secrets to life!

After that you will have to choose between "The Sahag" speaking on sleep problems with TMD patients, Mike on opening your eyes with removable restoration options, and President-elect Drew sharing secrets on how to make your practice stand out among your competition - if that is something you would like to happen?

After enjoying IACA's world renowned convention luncheon you will have NINE...count them, NINE different workshops to choose from. There are enough different subjects to choose from that one of those will be completely new to you. If you are one of the smart ones that brought eight or more team members you can assign a different subject to each team member and share later. If not...another lesson in life for you!

Regardless, you will have a great day and will learn new things to make your practice and your life better for you, your team, your family, and your patients! Enjoy!
